

Community Chest Porchlight Drive Thursday Eve. Nov. 15

One Evening to Complete Campaign Here

Dr. James C. W. White, local chairman for the Community Chest drive, announces that solicitations will be made one night, Thursday, November 15, in a "Porch Light Drive."

He is hoping that husbands and wives will work together as teams and would appreciate volunteers.

Workers will meet at the Woman's Clubhouse for instructions and supplies, then after they have covered their territory, will return to the club house to report and have refreshments.

Dr. White is spending a lot of valuable time in organization and he is hoping that each group will supply workers and that residents will co-operate by having their cash or checks ready and their porch light turned on on Thursday night, November 14.

The idea is to get it done in a big effort so that the drive will be a burden to no one.

Misses Sister in Bus Accident

Mrs. Frieda Lockhart, 1815 Dayton, received word Sunday at her sisters, Miss Evelyn Greenastel and Miss Helen Greenastel of San Francisco were passengers on the Greyhound bus which plunged off the Bay Bridge in San Francisco early in the morning.

Miss Evelyn, aged 28, was killed and Miss Helen, 23, is in critical condition with head and body injuries.

Mrs. Lockhart and her father, Bruno Greenastel, left Monday in Oakland, where Miss Helen is in Permanente Hospital. Mrs. Lockhart's husband, Lt. L. P. Moore, died on ship near area in August 1950. Herters were here then and have since visited here.

WHERE YOUR MONEY GOES

(Editor's Note: Deeming Sparks this week of more than passing interest, the Review is featuring the department today in the hopes that all our readers will scan the article so that they can see how some, at least of the Federal spending that Senators Byrd, Taft and others are protesting, is going into wasteful projects.)

by JAMES DORRIS

It would seem to be a fair assumption that very few people could be found who, if they were in sound mind and in possession of $10,000, would be willing to turn over that sum to Professors H. S. Liddell and C. M. McCay of Cornell University for a study of "tolerance and environmental stress in aged and newborn sheep and goats."

Yet just the other day Uncle Sam, through his agent, Federal Security Administrator Oscar Ewing, did that very thing.

To raise money to pay for important projects like that, Uncle Sam has found it necessary to raise individual income taxes by nearly 12 percent and to levy excise taxes of 10 percent on such items as dishwashers and clothes dryers.

As everyone knows, it is becoming increasingly difficult to take care of municipal, County and State needs because mounting Federal taxes are leaving ever slimmer pickings for local tax collectors. Here in California, the State needs are mounting.

Presbytery Asks Zone Variance

The Los Angeles Presbytery has asked the San Diego County Planning Commission for a zone variance so that the former club house of the La Mesa Country Club may be converted into a church.

The club house is located atop a hill on a four acre site overlooking Lemon Grove, La Mesa and Spring Valley, the area the new Presbyterian Church is to serve.

Rev. John Chandler is the pastor. He has purchased a home at 3232 Par drive.

The hearing is scheduled for 11:09 a. m. next Friday in Room 310, Civic Center, San Diego.

Bolsters Took 7000 Mile Trip East

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bolster, 1953 Washington have just returned from a 7000 mile trip which took them through 22 States. They went as far east as New York City and to Bridgeport, Conn., where Mr. Bolster was born. He was able to find a few of his folks there, although he had not been home for 30 years.

The Bolsters report that the trip was delightful, the weather being ideal there and back. Washington, D. C. was somewhat different than they expected and the building looked rather squat after having spent the day before in New York City. They were able to get on a couple of radio programs and enjoyed that. Mr. and Mrs. Bolster said that Lemon Grove and San Diego County beat anything they saw on the trip.

He Threw the Key to His Store Away

It is not unusual to hear of a man who does not have a key to his house. "What's the use of locking a house, if anyone wants to get in, they'll break a window."

But seldom do you hear of a man who has no key to his place of business. There is such a person and he's doing a thriving business, too.

S. Edmund Temple, Ed to his friends, has a market on Federal corner of 47th street, in Imig Park, and since he located there in June, '49, the door has never even been closed.

In fact, there is no front door. You know how these markets have folding doors. Ed doesn't need them for his market is open 24 hours a day, every day of the year—that means Christmas, Fourth of July and all the rest of the holidays.

Nice thing about it is that you get as good service at midnight as you do at noon. The Temple family has a habit of stopping in there one night a week because Ed is there then, and coming from our old stamping ground in Iowa, we have a lot to talk over concerning the "good old days."

We meet a lot of night workers from Lemon Grove in there, too, stopping to shop on their way home from work.

Temple's Market is like an old-fashioned Iowa grocery store—every thing from peanuts to hams. Crowd! You never saw so much crowded under one roof. No matter what you want in the line of food, it's there.

The nice part about it is when you check out—with Mrs. Temple in the day time or with the Mr. at night, they have a word of greeting for you, an inquiry about your grandchildren, or your dog or cat. They never forget to say "Howdy," "thank you" and "come again."

For over two years an ad for Temple's Market has appeared each week in the Review. Ask Ed, he'll tell you it pays and pays.

Camp Fire Leaders Training Classes

Twenty-three Grossmont District new Bluebird and Camp Fire Leaders attended the opening meeting of the leaders training course at the home of Mrs. Artha Barbour in La Mesa last Thursday. This first meeting outlined the Bluebird and Camp Fire programs. Mrs. Louise Milner taught Bluebird and Camp Fire songs assisted by Mrs. Roy Close of Lemon Grove.

Any person interested in taking this course may attend all meetings at the Barbour home. The total course will take 16 hours held on Thursday mornings from 9:30 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. This will also include the Grossmont Leaders Meeting November 14, at 9:30 a. m. at La Mesa Youth Center.

Occupying the rooms will be kindergartens through fifth grades with Mrs. Evelyn Lauritsen, principal.

The seventh and eighth grades which now occupy some of the buildings on the new location will be transferred to the original school on Lincoln and School Lane. Here, together with the sixth grades, who will be in part located in the middle section on School Lane, the classes will make up the Lemon Grove Intermediate School with S. K. Solleter, principal. Attending students will be from the entire district.

It was necessary to transfer these upper grade students because the site on Golden Avenue does not lend itself to the needs of the intermediate school. The district hopes to complete a new school for the sixth, seventh, and eighth graders as soon as all requirements are met and funds become available. Plans are now practically completed and will be taken soon to the State Allocation Board with a request for additional allocation. The 10 to 15 acres necessary for approval of such a school exist at the Lincoln Avenue site.

SCANNING THE WEEK'S NEWS of Main Street and the WorldAgriculture Department Considers
New Program for the Small Farmer

NEW FARM PLAN—As a result of a recent survey into the problem of the small American farmer, the Truman administration may come up with a new farm program in the near future more controversial than the Brannan plan and which could become one of the major issues in the 1952 presidential campaign.

The survey was conducted with the idea of learning what the department could do to help the small farmer who is having difficulties because of inadequate land, machinery, livestock and know how. Thousands of meetings have been held in the home towns across the nation discussing crop control, price support, farm loans and other small farm problems.

As a result, a major question has developed: should the government buy up land, redivide it into "economic" or "efficient" units, and resell it to low-income farmers? Also, should present crop controls be extended?

Brannan believes that if productivity of substandard farms can be increased many agriculture problems would tend to disappear. On the other hand, many farm leaders have remained aloof and have not taken part in the meetings, criticizing Brannan's methods more than his objectives.

Two possible legislative proposals may come from the survey: (1) A technical assistance program for the less efficient farms and farmers, and (2) a farm-loan program designed to help such farmers acquire land, machinery, equipment, livestock and the know how to operate efficient farms.

Whatever the final form, any new farm plan, whether it incorporates the government buying and redivision of land or not, is bound to become a major campaign issue. Much of the opposition will come from the farm bureaus who have long resented Brannan as trying to usurp the roles of the private farm organizations and regimenting agriculture.

Meeting Place

Paektusan, is the proposed site for new Korea cease-fire talks. Meanwhile, fighting continues on the central front with Allied forces making limited advances.

BOYLE RESIGNS—The big question in political circles since William M. Boyle, Jr., close friend of President Truman resigned as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, is whether or not Guy Gabrilson, GOP national chairman, will be the next to go?

Boyle and Gabrilson have been under fire as having used their positions to influence the Reconstruction Finance Corporation into granting loans to campaigns they represented or were connected with. And although Gabrilson insists he will stay on, political observers believe his number is up, too.

In his letter of resignation Boyle gave health as his reason, insisting he had at all times conducted himself with "honor and propriety." He did admit testimony during the congressional hearing that he accepted eight law cases involving government agencies, at fees totaling approximately $150,000, while serving as chairman of the national committee.

LESS CIVILIAN GOODS—Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson announced a cut in civilian goods production, effective January 1, that will be felt in the home towns across the nation.

The cutback in civilian production, 10 per cent for washing machines and stoves and even more in the automobile industry, will provide steel for the armament program which will hit full stride during the first three months of 1952.

The home town that has a school or hospital under construction will get enough materials to finish the project, but there will not be materials available to start new ones. As for farm machinery, so vital to agriculture and home town economy, there will be enough to support production "at a healthy and adequate level."

MIDDLE EAST BLOWUP—There is shaping up in the Middle East an explosion that could be felt in the smallest American community. The situation has developed as Egypt has increased pressure in recent weeks to remove the British from the Sudan and strategic Suez.

As a compromise, the United States, Britain, France and Turkey have asked Egypt to become the center of an alliance in the area against communism, but the proposal was received coolly by King Farouk's government.

This dispute is important to home town Americans because of the nation's interest in Suez, which if placed under Egyptian protection, would be a prize the Russians could take with little difficulty. The British, under present treaties with Egypt, have the legal right to maintain troops in the canal zone which is her economic life-line. She will not back down in her determination to remain in the zone. Thus, if the Egyptian government attempts to remove them by force the British will resist. If the Russians should decide to step in at this point, the world would become involved in World War III.

There is a chance that Egypt may accept the west's proposal of joint defense of the area, but only because she is not in a position to defend herself.

NEW DECLARATION—In a major speech last week President Truman again declared American foreign policy is "based upon the hope that it will be possible to live, without a war, in the same world as the Soviet Union—if the free nations have adequate defenses." And he again offered to "sit down with the Soviet Union" and other nations to work out agreements to relieve mankind of "the horror of another world war" and provide the basis for "a durable peace."

The President pointed out the central theme of America's present foreign policy and defense program: "So long as one country has the power and the force to overwhelm others and so long as that country has aggressive intentions real peace is unattainable. The stronger we become, the more possible it will be to work out solid and lasting arrangements that will prevent war. Our strength will make for peace."

IRAN'S OIL—Mohammed Mossadegh, premier of Iran, who has taken the British-Iranian oil dispute to the United Nations Security Council, told UN diplomats to keep their hands off the dispute and warned "we will not be coerced."

In presenting the Iranian point of view he said there are only two questions open to negotiations: (1) Compensation for British investments in the now nationalized Anglo-Iranian Oil company, and (2) possible sale of oil to Britain.

He then made his strongest point: "We will not take action and will not engage in negotiations affecting our internal affairs under pressure. To do so would not only constitute an admission that we are not a sovereign and equal nation, but would eventually be fatal to our independence."

The question remains who will operate the huge Anglo-Iranian Oil company refineries. The Iranians do not have the technical know-how and the British experts have already been sent home. How can Iran sell when it can't produce it?

THUMB-SUCKING

A Natural Habit, Noted Doctor Says

Since the beginning of time, the mothers have tried to stop their babies from sucking their thumbs, the noted physician observes. If it persists after the age of two, he has discovered as the result of intensive studies, "the child feels unloved, unwanted, guilty, resentful or is need of consolation."

What is the remedy if a child continues to suck his thumb? "Treat the child, not the symptom," advises Dr. Kugelmas.

Thumb-sucking usually declines

ROUGH SOLON . . . Rep. Pat Sulston (D., Tenn.) tells Capitol news men how he downed an armed thug with one punch after the gunman accosted him in an alley near the home of a friend he was visiting. When he returned with police the thug was gone.

RED RETURNED . . . Gus Hall, fugitive national secretary of the U.S. Communist party who jumped bail to escape prison, was arrested by Mexican secret service agents near Mexico City, and is being deported back to the United States.

ANTI-FROSTBITE . . . Korean war veteran, S/Sgt. Thomas Davies, Dover, N. J., who was felled by frostbite last winter in Korea, looks out from a cold chamber at Brooklyn navy yard as he tests navy-developed uniform for the coldest temperatures.

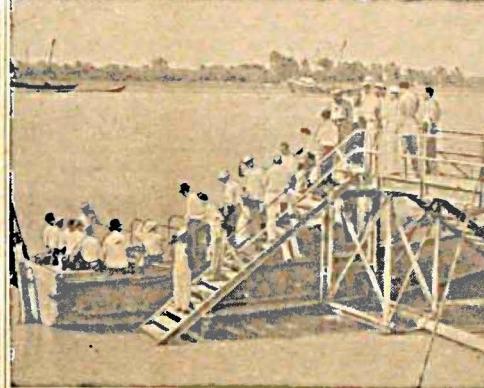

WARN ON ATOMIC RACE . . . Rep. Henry Jackson, Washington, warns that intelligence reports reveal that Russia is making an all-out effort to surpass the U. S. in atomic weapons. He says it will be "national suicide" for the U. S. to fall behind.

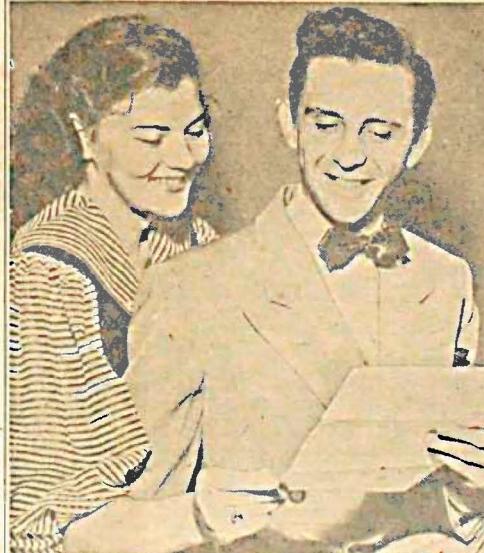

SUSPENDED . . . Jack Mullins, Columbia University star student, was suspended for one semester for hurling a glass lumber from a dormitory window on a dare. The lumber struck the windshield of a car owned by a professor.

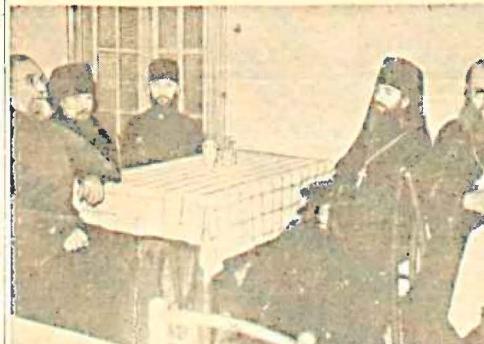

SAVES CHILDREN, DIES . . . Firemen lower a basket containing body of Mrs. Irma Randall, 35, a Brooklyn mother who died in flames after she had rescued four of her nine children. The mother was at home with the four youngsters when the fire broke out and spread quickly up to their apartment 50 feet above the ground. A crowd held a blanket and the mother tossed the children into it. All landed safely, but after the rescue Mrs. Randall's body lay across the burning window sill.

BRITISH OIL WORKERS QUIT ABADAN . . . British oil technicians are shown boarding one of the launches that ferried them from Abadan to the British cruiser Mauritius during the evacuation of Anglo-Iranian company employees from the billion-dollar British-built plant now nationalized by the Iranian government. A total of 315 Britons were evacuated with a government order that followed an Iranian ultimatum.

DRAFT BOARD WON'T LEAVE HIM ALONE . . . Ernest Houde, Jr., Bridgeport, Conn., has the most persistent draft board in the U. S. He fought in the Korean war, was wounded, came back home and got married. Twice while he was hospitalized in Korea, the draft board published his name as a delinquent with orders to report for induction. Recently, arriving home from a veteran's hospital, he found a notice for him to report for a pre-induction physical. With him is his wife.

RUSSIAN PRIESTS FLEE THEIR COUNTRY . . . Five Russian priests who fled Communist Russia are shown as they made a brief stopover in Rome, Italy, in their quest for freedom. From Rome they are going to Naples, where they will board a ship for Palestine. Left to right, they are Vladimiro Landemans, Andrell Krisolov, Ivano Raskov, Sergei Turanski, and Leosevi Kravchenko. They are just one example of the yearning of the religious to escape from the Communist yoke.

THE WASHINGTON
Merry-Go-Round
BY DREW PEARSON

New Weapons

A ROUND 1948 as our hoped-for friendly relations with Russia were turning more and more sour, Gen. Omar Bradley, meeting with a small group of congressmen, predicted:

"If the Red army chose to invade Europe right now, they could reach the English channel in 12 days. Nothing could stop them."

Today, this is not the case. The Red army could be stopped at the Rhine.

This change is not because the Red army is any smaller. It still has millions of men, still is completely reckless in its disregard for casualties. Nor is the change because Eisenhower's army is more adequate. Though Eisenhower has done a good job, his army is still artificially small compared with the Russian.

The change, therefore, is chiefly the result of one thing—new atomic weapons.

Hitherto, the atom bomb could be used only against cities where the destruction of civilians was such that public opinion rebelled against it. Now, however, atomic artillery shells and other weapons make it possible to confine the deadly destruction of atomic energy to enemy troops in the field.

This means that the civilian death toll can be divorced from the atom bomb, and that atom weapons will be used.

Rhine Is Barrier

It also means that the Red army can be stopped at the Rhine or at any large river. Because, to cross the Rhine, an invading army must concentrate at the bridgeheads. And large troop concentrations form perfect targets for atomic weapons. Thus divisions of the Red army, forming to cross a bridge over the Rhine, could be decimated by these new weapons which make the maginot line look like cemetery hill at Gettysburg.

The above fact, under present-day diplomacy, is something we want the Kremlin to know. For Hitler would not have marched into Poland had he not felt certain of victory; and Stalin will not march into Western Europe if he knows what awaits him.

Ike Will Run

George Allen, the former White House jester, is now about the closest man to General Eisenhower. It was Allen who acted as liaison between Truman and Eisenhower to make sure Ike didn't get into the race as a Democrat in 1948.

Today, Allen, though a Mississippi Democrat, says that Ike is sure to run as a Republican.

Talking to a friend recently, Allen predicted:

"What Ike will do will be exactly what Roosevelt did at Chicago in 1932. He'll hop on a plane and fly straight to the convention."

Doctors say that many other laxatives start the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, dash away nourishing food you need for health and energy, and give you weak, tired, worn-out feelings.

"Don't be foolish," shot back the former White House jester, "what's the commander-in-chief going to do about it?"

Censorship

Inside fact about the President's one press conference lecture about protecting U. S. secrets was that his immediate advisers didn't want him to make it. They knew public reaction would be bad.

However, the Defense department, Central Intelligence and others in charge of military secrets urged the President not only to issue his censor order but back it up—in part to keep the military from setting U. S. policy.

Time after time, high generals or admirals have barged in on civilian officials or disclosed secrets which caused serious damage.

Most important was the release of the Smythe report on atomic energy by Gen. Leslie Groves. A few hours after the report was sent to several thousand newspapers, horrified scientists protested to the Army that the report contained vital secrets by which an astute scientist could piece together the know-how for making the A-bomb. Hurriedly, Groves demanded that the report be recalled.

"That," replied a member of his staff, "would be like trying to put an egg back into a chicken."

Washington Pipeline

Ex-Secretary of War Robert Patterson has notified the Senate judiciary committee that he has withdrawn his endorsement of Miss Frieda Hencock to be a U. S. judge, since Patterson once sat on the U. S. Court of Appeals, his word counts heavily with the senators. He informed them that when he originally endorsed Miss Hencock, he had not realized all the facts now brought out by the New York bar association.

It's Wonderful the Way Chewing-Gum Laxative Acts Chiefly to REMOVE WASTE NOT GOOD FOOD

• Here's about $750,000,000 worth of chewing-gum laxative, the modern chewing-gum laxative. Its laxative action is so wonderfully different!

Doctors say that many other laxatives start the stomach where food is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, dash away nourishing food you need for health and energy, and give you weak, tired, worn-out feelings.

But FEEN-A-MINT, taken as recommended, works chiefly in the lower bowel, where waste is being digested. Large doses of such laxatives upset digestion, dash away nourishing food you need for health and energy, and give you weak, tired, worn-out feelings.

• You avoid that typical weak, tired, worn-out feeling. The FEEN-A-MINT laxative relieves constipation and feel your "puppy" energetic self! It's wonderful, too, that FEEN-A-MINT costs only 12¢.

FORGERY IN GOLD

Nation's Busiest Forger Keeps Out of Prison Only Block Away

The busiest forger in the country plies his trade just a block from Iowa's state penitentiary. But he has no fear his victim will lead him behind the grim walls as it has hundreds of other forgers.

Mild-mannered, law-abiding James Jordan is well started on a career of counterfeiting signatures at the age of 24. Already he has forged more than 5,000 including those of Herbert Hoover and Gen. Douglas MacArthur—but he's never been at odds with the law.

Every day since October 1, 1950, Jim has duplicated about 20 signatures per day, nearly three every

Star Dust
STAGE-SCREEN-RADIO

By INEZ GERHARD

RICHARD "RED" SKELTON, the son of a famous American clown, launched his own television show just ten years from the day when he stepped out as star of his own radio program. The thousands who have enjoyed him in films and on the air now find him doing some of the same characterizations that they enjoyed, but he plans to add some new ones. In this new medium he is, of course, screamingly funny. He is supported by David Rose, musical conductor and composer, and the Skylarks vocal group.

Stanley Kramer, who gave us "The Champion," "Home of the Brave," "The Men" and "Cyrano de Bergerac," is making his first western in "High Noon," and insiders say it may be his most brilliant venture so far. The picture's entire action takes place in 90 minutes. Gary Cooper, whom Zane Grey termed his "ideal westerner," is starred, with an excellent cast.

Jack Benny does just a bit in "Somebody Loves Me," the film based on the lives of Blossom Seeley and Benny Fields, the vaudeville stars. Benny is an old friend of theirs. The picture stars Betty Hutton as Miss Seeley.

Meira Shearer expects to arrive in this country November 12, with her husband, head straight for Hollywood, and begin practicing her ballet routines for Samuel Goldwyn's "Hans Christian Andersen." The lovely star of "Red Shoes" will be accompanied by her husband, Ludovic Kennedy. Danny Kaye and Farley Granger will co-star in what should be a delightful picture.

People Rank Herbert Hoover Greatest Statesman

By Wright A. Patterson

THREE OR FOUR DAYS before Herbert Hoover moved from the White House back to his home in Palo Alto, Calif., I wrote him a note in which I said: "Regardless of the result of the last election, the historians will classify you as one of the great Presidents of America, and the people of the nation will accept the historians' verdict."

The people did not wait for the verdict of the historians. Of their own volition they have accepted Herbert Hoover as the greatest of present day American statesmen. In every way they can show it they approve his policies. They accept him as an American leader far more than at any time in the past. They have written their own verdict.

While I was visiting with Representative Joe Martin in his office in the capitol building at Washington, a few days before the convening of the Republican national convention at Philadelphia, he asked, "Who is your choice as a Republican for President?"

"My first choice is Herbert Hoover, my second is Joseph Martin," I replied.

"I believe we could elect Hoover, but I doubt if we could nominate him. As for your second choice, I do not want to be President, now, I do want to be speaker of the house of representatives first."

At that Philadelphia convention Hoover was scheduled to deliver an address. The Willkie managers were afraid of the result of that address. They were fearful it might sweep the delegates off their feet and result in a Hoover nomination, which I believe he would have accepted at that time.

Not necessarily Willkie, but his managers, in an effort to prevent such a possibility, pulled the dirtiest political trick I have ever seen played in any of the more than 20 national conventions I have attended as a reporter.

The instant Hoover stepped to the loud speaker microphone, the system was put out of commission and it stayed out until the address was finished. Hoover's voice was not strong enough for an auditorium of that size, and no one of the delegates or the audience heard any part of his address.

There followed no demonstration as there had been at Cleveland four years earlier. Had Hoover not left the convention hall the instant his address was completed, he would have been the nominee. I know he did not want it at that time. He told me so as he left the Philadelphia convention hall. It was reported to me, and I believe it, that he said, "I will never again be a candidate nor will I accept a nomination for any elective political office."

Today, if it were left to the choice of the Republican voters, Herbert Hoover could be nominated and elected President of the United States. The people believe in the policies that—as an old man—he enunciates. They would like to have him as a leader, but he is afraid of the result of that address. They were fearful it might sweep

THE FICTION CORNER

ALL IN FUN

By Richard Hill Wilkinson

THERE has probably never been a greater hatred than that which existed between Barney Craig and Dan Chester. It all started because of Barney's eagerness to become a member of the local lodge. As one of three candidates he was introduced to Dan at the September meeting. Imbued with the feeling of good fellowship which the brothers always emanated, Barney assumed at once a familiar attitude and took liberties. Jovially, he made a crack about Dan's ears, which protruded from the Chester head horizontally, instead of perpendicularly, as is the case in normal man. The blush which mounted to Dan's cheeks provoked guffaws of amusement from the delighted Barney.

After the meeting in which Barney's name was voted on, Dan publicly announced that he would have shot any man who had blackballed him. Every one knew what he meant. Barney's initiation would last for two months and would involve a good deal of horseplay. Dan was out for revenge.

And he got it. During the two months of initiation, Barney suffered all the humiliations, indignations and unrestrained paddings of a college freshman.

When it was over, the night that Barney received the ritual and became a full-fledged brother, Dan grinned at him good-naturedly. "You sure can take it, Brother Craig. Of course it was all in fun."

"Yeah," said Barney. "And now that I'm a full-fledged member I'm as good as you? Is that right?"

"Absolutely, brother," said Dan.

"Good," said Barney, "because for a long time I've wanted to do this." And he hauled off and let Dan have a smart one on the point of his jaw. "All in fun, you know," Barney grinned savagely.

Dan picked himself up and nodded, "O.K., Brother Craig, suppose you and I go outside."

They went outside and removed their coats. Ten minutes later Barney was lying on the ground staring at Dan through the one eye that could still open a crack.

"All in fun, Brother Craig. Come around again some time when you feel in a playful mood."

BARNEY spent most of November and December in a gymnasium. Shortly after the first of the year he encountered Brother Dan again. "Hello, Big Ears," he remarked, "suppose we go outside?"

Dan was willing. They went outside, and in nine and one half minutes Barney decided that Dan must have practically slept in a gymnasium.

Barney went home and cursed himself to sleep. He decided that he'd lick Dan Chester if he died trying which by the feeling of his jaw he thought might happen any minute.

Barney hired K. O. McManus to train him. K. O. was pretty rough and Barney suffered a lot, but he acquired knowledge. On the first of March he invited Brother Dan "outside."

The battle lasted 20 minutes this time.

Spring was in full bloom when Barney again sent word to Dan to meet him outside. There was quite an audience on hand this time.

The fight lasted 25 minutes. Both participants were pretty groggy. They were swinging wild and without much zip. It began to look like a draw, when suddenly it occurred to Barney that for the first time Dan wasn't beating him. The thought gave him a feeling of elation and a burst of energy. He poked a neat one at Dan's chin and it connected. Barney, thrown off balance, too weak to steady himself, fell across his opponent's prostate form and lay there.

It took an hour to revive the batters. Barney came to first and looked at Dan thoughtfully. Presently Dan stirred and opened his eyes. He saw Barney and propped him up on an elbow.

"Well, well, Brother Craig. Congratulations!"

"Thanks," said Barney, and grinned too. "All in fun you know."

"Sure," said Dan, "all in fun."

And he extended his hand.

Barney gripped the hand and started to make a crack about Dan's big ears, but changed his mind.

nia, badly needed school and highway construction, for example, is hampered for lack of tax funds. It's easier to put up with crowded schools and rutted highways, however, when one learns that the Federal government has greater needs, such as the need to determine the extent of "sibling rivalry" as a psychological hazard.

Research in that vital field, under one of a series of grants totalling $782,761 just awarded by the Federal Security Administration, will be conducted by Professor Frances G. Orr of the University of Colorado. Sibling rivalry, Webster's International discloses, is a six-bit way of saying that brothers and sisters are often jealous of each other. The current tax hike has been es.

defended as a necessary step to curb inflation, although followers of that school of thought have never come forward with a wholly satisfactory explanation of just how the addition of 10 percent to the price of a dishwasher curb inflation. The government's position in the inflation picture becomes just a little confused in any case, when it is realized that the charges for government services that have been raised 13 fold in the past 13 years. If automobile prices were as inflated as Uncle Sam's tax bill, a Ford or a Chevy would currently sell for $9,000.

The basic theory, however, appears to be that excess purchasing power in the hands of individuals encourage waste and has best be syphoned off by the Department of Internal Revenue, for such eventual purposes as last week's grant to Dr. Robert F. Winch of Northwestern University for the study of "unconscious factors governing courtship and mate-selection." Dr. Winch will find out all there is to know about necking for $12,096.

The news of these various projects may not fully explain the necessity for the current sharp increase in taxes. But it does at least suggest an explanation of why so many college professors ardently support the New Deal.

Washing machines consume large quantities of water. For that reason, the machine should be loaded to capacity rather than using is frequently for small, less-than-capacity wash-

With the opening of the new school, it will be possible to put the fifth grades at Golden Avenue on all-day session, and the entire intermediate school will have full day classes.

Fifth and sixth graders will begin at 9:00 a. m. and classes will continue to 3:30, with a 12:15-1:15 lunch hour. The seventh and eighth grades will continue with their present schedule. Next year the intermediate school will operate on a uniform schedule.

There will be some changes in bus schedule times and these changes will be announced in all classes to the pupils.

Fifth grades in Monterey Heights and Vista La Mesa School will continue on half-day session until the completion of additional classrooms there and of the new San Miguel School.

Lemon Grove School

Mrs. Holmquist's sixth grade class enjoyed a field trip to the Museum of Man in Balboa Park on Wednesday at noon. The students are studying Canada and the Indians and Eskimos of that section of North America in their history and geography classes. The current display at the museum is featuring masks of the Northwest made by these people. Parents of many of the pupils provided transportation for the class and enjoyed a picnic lunch in the park with them.

Also in connection with the study of our northern neighbor, a committee with Antone Kalilis, Roger Hoppe, and Vernon Mayes has made a time line chart for the classroom which shows the exploration of Canada from the year 1000 to 1784.

"Vitamin Rivers," an excellent movie on fruits and their valuable juices, was shown to many students in both the intermediate school and Golden Avenue School last week. The picture, sponsored by the American Can Company, was endorsed by Rolland Purves, district audio-visual representative.

The student council, made up of the fourth and fifth grades from the new school and the sixth grades of the intermediate school, is sponsoring a book report contest for children from the first through the sixth grades. The contest will be in mid-November and results will be announced at that time.

The Music Parents Club will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in the school cafeteria at Lemon Grove Intermediate School.

Golden Avenue School

On Tuesday of last week, the ner planned the drawing of the afternoon second grade, with Mrs. Stocking, visited the main fire station in downtown San Diego. Pupils were all thrilled to see the firemen jump from the building into the net below. Everyone learned more about the ways in which the fire department operates to help communities.

School Safety patrol members, who will again be honored this week when they are the guests of John van Gilse at his Grove Theatre for the Saturday matinee, are Roy Porter, John Wylie, Fred Northcutt, John O'Connor, Warren Hagen, George Peil, Bob Coy, Vernon Mayes, David Varga, and Bob Kivit; also Jane Larsen and Jim Thompson, playground patrols.

Student Council representatives from Mr. Strawn's fourth grade are Michael Calvert and Francis Farrow. Junior Red Cross delegates are Duane Bennett and Judith Johnson. Kenneth Kunkel is the newly elected class president.

Monterey Heights School

Wayne Stephens has been elected president of Mr. Poast's morning fourth grade class at Monterey Heights, with George Radici, vice president; Phyllis Mitchell, secretary; Keith Julian, class representative to Student Body Council; and Carol Knight, treasurer.

Vista La Mesa School

Mrs. Cornelius' fifth grade class has become interested in the origins of their surnames. They have made a large map of the world on which tapes will lead to the various nations, thus indicating the "mother country" of each name in the class.

Preserving the Constitution

Science has stayed the hand of physical deterioration from which the original parchments on which the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution are inscribed. Enclosed in special sheets of glass, the lie on moisture-absorbing cellulose backing in a filling of humidified helium gas, in which mold and insects cannot live.

Curiously, history tells us that if some of the great and noble men who helped write those documents could have been present at the sealing, they would have been less surprised than at the science displayed than at the endurance of the Constitution as the basic, immutable law of the land.

For many of them, including such staunch patriots as Thomas Jefferson and John Marshall, had doubts in the beginning that men of their young country—or of any human society—could govern themselves as wholly free men. The ideal burned within them—the then radical, revolutionary concept of man as his own master, the Constitution be truly guaranteed.

Think every time you use water. There are dozens of ways other than those mentioned here to save water.

Crime in America

By ESTES KEFAUVER
United States Senator

One of a Series

Birth of the Crime Committee

Ordinarily, Americans don't think much about the existence and influence of organized crime. They know vaguely that it is there, and they let it go at that. For some years, however—since the days when I was a young lawyer in Tennessee—I had been troubled by the unpleasant realization that there was a tie-up between crime and politics.

The idea stayed with me when I became a member of the senate in January, 1949. More and more I was concerned with the phenomenon of politico-criminal corruption.

Early in 1950, an accumulation of events high-lighted the real facts about crime in America. The desperate need for learning the facts, the American Municipal Association, alarmed by the effects of interstate crime operations on local governments, called for federal consideration of the problem. Newspapers—and the free press is one of our democracy's most potent weapons—were making startling disclosures about the power of modern crime bosses, the white-collar successors to the Al Capones of an earlier era.

I felt the time had come to demonstrate that there is nothing the American people cannot overcome if they know the facts. So I took the issue to the senate floor by introducing a bill calling for a full-scale senate investigation of crime in interstate commerce.

As chairman, I was extremely fortunate in having the backing of four able colleagues. These were Sen. Robert R. O'Connor, Democrat, of Maryland, to whom I turned over chairmanship of the committee last May when I felt the time had come for me to step down; Sen. Lester C. Hunt, Democrat, of Wyoming, whose great gift for common sense and arriving at sound decisions contributed much stability to our deliberations; Sen. Alexander Wiley, Republican of Wisconsin, and that remarkable moral battler, Sen. Charles W. Tobey, Republican, of New Hampshire.

Serving on the crime committee was a tremendous emotional experience for all of us. For me, it became more than merely a committee appointment: it became a way of life. Almost everything conceivable happened; in San Francisco, someone stole my hat in the federal courthouse; in Los Angeles, a youngster grabbed me in the courthouse corridor as I walked past a telephone booth and asked me to say a word to "Mom."

Our first hearing was conducted in Miami, Fla., on May 28, 1950. Between that date and the time my term as chairman ended, I traveled approximately 32,300 miles from coast to coast. Hearings were conducted in Miami, Tampa, New Orleans, Kansas City, Cleveland, St. Louis, Detroit, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Las Vegas, Philadelphia, Washington, Chicago, and New York. They brought in evidence of widespread crime in other cities and states, and our investigators diligently pursued these leads. We questioned witnesses from nearly every state in the union.

Through it all, I listened with mounting indignation and revulsion to the shocking story of our national disgrace. When it was over, we had established that a nationwide crime syndicate does exist in the United States, despite the protestations of a strangely assorted company of criminals, self-serving politicians, plain blind fools and others who may be honestly misguided, that there is no such combine.

The Mafia and Lucky Luciano

The Mafia is the shadowy international organization that lurks behind much of America's organized crime. It is a network about which no member, on fear of death, will talk.

In fact, some of the witnesses whom we had good reason to believe could tell the Senate Crime Committee about the Mafia, sought to shrug it off as a sort of fairy tale or legend that children hear in Sicily where the Mafia originated.

The Mafia, however, is no fairy tale. It is ominously real, and it has scarred the face of America with murder, traffic in narcotics, smuggling, extortion, white slavery, kidnapping and labor-racketeering. La Mafia even has its secret—and, of course, unwritten—code called "Omertà," a derivation of the Italian word for "man." The code is simple and brutal: death to those who resist or inform on the Mafia. Usually, a member of the offender's family is killed as additional warning.

Narcotics Agent Claude A. Follmer testified that there is "some contention" as to the identity of the New York head of the Mafia. He revealed that "it has always been my understanding that it is

Giants, Yanks, Dodgers; '52 Teams

By GRANTLAND RICE

WITH the passing of another world series it might be time to ask this question—what about the two pennant races next year? What has 1952 to offer? In the National League there are only two clubs who should again stand out. They are the Giants and Dodgers. And the Giants will have to duck another eleven-game losing streak or sinking ship. The other six clubs are from 16 to 33 games away from the top.

That's a killing margin to wipe out in one season. Or two seasons. From the Cardinals on down all six are packed with weak spots. The Cardinals looked better than the rest.

The Phillies were over 20 games away from 1950. This can't be all charged to Curt Simmons, although part of it can. Robin Roberts had another big season, so the entire answer certainly wasn't pitching.

The Cardinals finished a trifling stronger than the others, but their play against the Dodgers was entirely too sour to have them rank close to Chuck Dressen's squad.

I can't see much hope for the Reds, Cubs and Pirates. They have so many wide-open gaps that filling half of them would be a big job.

The American League would have been far better if it hadn't been for the near collapse of the Tigers and White Sox. The White Sox looked like pennant contenders up through June. Then not even Paul Richards could keep them aloft any longer.

The Tigers simply didn't have it. Art Houtteman's loss didn't help anyway, but there were other flaws that Red Ruffe couldn't cure.

During World War II, there was a list of bacillus—about a dozen—valuable services that Luciano, then a convict, was supposed to have furnished the military authorities in connection with plans for the invasion of his native Sicily. We dug into this and obtained a number of conflicting stories. This is one of the points about which the committee would have questioned Governor Dewey, who commuted Luciano's sentence. If the governor had not declined our invitation to come to New York city to testify.

One story which we heard from Attorney Moses Palaskoff was that naval intelligence had sought out Luciano's aid and had asked Palaskoff, who had represented Luciano, said, "The theory behind it was that the government had the Germans pretty well spotted, but they were afraid that if any sabotage might be done it would be done through Italians, who weren't well spotted." He was referring to sabotage along the New York water front. From a retired naval commander, who had a hand in the affair, we received inconclusive testimony as to the substance and value of the information obtained from Luciano.

The National League race should be another Giant-Dodger battle. The Dodgers have many good minor leaguers to be too far away. The Giants will be just as good next year.

The race should be again between the Yankees and Indians. I can't see the Tigers in there seriously menacing the leaders.
